SYNOPSIS:

On April 2, 2018, at about 3:55 p.m., deputies from the Sheriff's Imperial Beach Substation responded to the 2800 block of Prospect Street, in the unincorporated area of National City, for reports of gunfire. Upon arrival, deputies learned an adult female gunshot victim was transported to a local hospital by an unknown subject. Deputies believed the suspect, identified as Raymond Magana (DOB 04/16/1981), was still armed inside the residence.

After several attempts to contact Magana by phone to convince him to surrender, the Sheriff's Special Enforcement Detail (SWAT) was called to the scene. At about 6:58 p.m., deputies took Magana into custody at his front door. Magana was evaluated for minor injuries at a local hospital then booked into the San Diego Central Jail for attempted murder and several firearm charges. Detectives at the Imperial Beach Substation continue to investigate the incident.

At the time of this media release, the victim remained at the hospital in serious, but non-life threatening condition.
